Over Fifty Dead in Illinois Hospital Fire

BANK OFFICER APPREHENDED BY THE F. B. I.

Assistant Manager of New York Branch Missing With $884,660 Taken at Daytona Beach

PART OF LOOT FOUND

Washington, April 5—(P)—Richard H. Crowe was seized in Daytona Beach, Fla., last night on charges of fleeing with $884,660 from New York's National City Bank.

Crowe, assistant manager of the bank's branch at 195 Broadway, was arrested by FBI agents. He had been missing since March 27. FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover who announced the arrest said Crowe was tracked down after a wide search in Florida.

Crowe was taken into custody in a bar after the agents and Daytona Beach police had trailed him from the state.

Hoover said Crowe admitted taking a "large sum" of money from the bank but declined to specify any particular amount.

Agents recovered $54,798.83 from a suitcase in Crowe's possession.

Previously, Hoover said, $36,505 of the funds had been recovered and an additional $39,850 had been located.

All told, Hoover added, a total of $131,153.83 of the stolen funds have been accounted for.

The bank previously reported that Crowe had taken at least $884,660, including $195,000 in cash and $689,660 in bonds.

About $15,000 in cash was found in a vacant beach bungalow owned by Crowe's parents at Staten Island.

In addition, Crowe had mailed approximately $61,000 to banks and friends whom he owed money. The money was sent from Florida a few days after he disappeared.

Crowe told the FBI, however, that he threw the stolen bonds and securities in the Atlantic Ocean and "took these only to make the bank officials angry."

Hoover's account said: "After fleeing from New York City on March 27, 1948, Crowe purchased a new car in Jacksonville, Fla., on March 28, 1948, which he abandoned at St. Augustine, Fla., on April 1."

"On this occasion he stored the car at a local garage stating it was the property of John Roberts (a fictitious person) in Miami who would be out of the country for six months. This car was located by local police in St. Augustine after details of the car had been widely broadcast by the FBI throughout the nation."

"The investigation that followed disclosed that Crowe purchased a club coupe in St. Augustine for $2,851 on April 1. He abandoned this car at Daytona Beach, claiming he was afraid FBI agents had already obtained information on it. Last Saturday he rented an apartment at Daytona Beach under the name of Richard H. Sparta, N. J. Since arriving in Daytona Beach he has spent his time lounging on the beach and in bars."

"Last evening while several FBI agents were looking for Crowe two agents recognized him on the streets of Daytona Beach and followed him to a bar. The agents were then joined by a member of the Daytona Beach police department and Crowe was accosted. Crowe readily admitted his identity and admitted a willingness to return to New York to face charges."

Hoover said arrangements are being made with the U. S. attorney in Jacksonville, Fla., for Crowe's arraignment as soon as possible.

PENNSY RECALLS MEN

Altoona, April 5—(P)—The Pennsylvania Railroad today announced it will recall to work April 7 approximately 11,000 workers in the Altoona shop who were furloughed March 21 because of the coal mine shutdown. The layoffs originally were scheduled to end April 1 but were extended six more days.

Foreign Ministers of Pact Entertained By President

Washington, April 5—(P)—President Truman had the foreign ministers of the Atlantic Pact powers and about 50 other people—out to dinner last night.

"Everyone apparently had a good time," Mr. Truman proposed a toast to the treaty. One of the ministers proposed a toast to Mr. Truman. The Marine band played in a balcony and played dinner music.

The 39 men and 26 women guests gathered around a big horseshoe table in the Carlton Hotel, ate breast of guinea hen and Virginia ham with Madeira sauce and mushrooms.

Young Mother Saved From Gallows by King

London, April 5—(P)—King George saved from the gallows today a pretty 19-year-old mother, Mrs. Renne Duffy, sentenced to hang for killing her 22-year-old husband with a hammer.

She testified at her trial her husband beat her and she decided to leave him, taking her 11-month-old baby. She said when he tried to prevent her taking the baby she picked up a hammer and hit him twice.

The king's reprieve is in effect a commutation of the death sentence. Instead she will be held in prison for an indefinite term.

The reprieve was made on the recommendation of Home Secretary J. Chuter Ede, Attorney General for the young mother presented to Ede petitions for mercy signed by 12,000 persons.

Her execution had been set for Thursday.

Senate Plods Toward Vote On ECA Plan

Washington, April 5—(P)—The senate today plodded slowly toward a vote on the $5,580,000,000 European recovery program.

A critical minority showed no signs of being in any hurry to reach a final vote on the measure. Lengthy debate is expected on a sheaf of amendments to the Economic Cooperation Administration authorization bill.

The pending amendment is one offered by Senator Ellender (D-La.) to set aside not less than 25 per cent of their so-called counterpart funds to buy critical materials needed by this country.

These counterpart funds are the money the governments put up to match ECA dollar aid.

At present, the act provides the nations put aside not less than five per cent of counterpart funds for strategic materials.

Backers of the full ECA aid program are expected to override the Ellender amendment just as they did an economy move by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) and Senator Russell (D-Ga.).

The Taft-Russell amendment to cut 10 per cent of ECA spending was beaten down 54 to 23 last week.

Senate Committee Takes Up Truck Bill Amid Arguments

Harrisburg, April 5—(P)—The senate highways committee meets today to consider the truck weight bill amid a barrage of arguments for and against the controversial proposal.

Already approved by the house, the bill would boost the legal weights for commonly used tractor trucks. Tractor-trailer units now limited to a gross weight of 45,000 pounds would be allowed weights of 48,000 and 50,000 depending on the number of axles.

In addition, the measure would impose stiff penalties for truck overloading, now limited to a top of $50.

Practically every senator on the 22-member committee heard arguments from both sides before the committee convened in a closed session.

In the background was an advertising campaign presenting the pros and cons of the debate.

Reduction in Car Prices Continues

Detroit, April 5—(P)—The downward movement in car prices continues.

Effective last midnight, Nash-Kelvinator Corp. announced a reduction of $20 to $120 on its two series of cars.

The announcement came on the heels of a similar cut by Ford. In the four weeks previously Kaiser-Frazer, Willys-Overland and General Motors had cut prices.

Greater availability of materials, increased production volume, reductions in materials costs SNA uninterrupted production were given as reasons for the Nash reductions.

Ford of Canada today also announced price reductions ranging from $30 to $114 on passenger cars and from $16 to $42 on lighter trucks.

ALLIANCE MAY GO TO SENATE DURING WEEK

Appeal for Speedy Action To Be Made by President When Document Goes to Congress

THREE MAJOR STEPS

Washington, April 5—(P)—Senator Connally (D-Tex.) called today for "high priority" in senate action on the North Atlantic Security Treaty.

But the timing remained uncertain on the senate decision to affirm or block this country's entry into the 12-nation defense alliance signed here yesterday.

Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, would promise only that the historic treaty will reach the senate floor "in this session" of congress. He said there is much pressing domestic legislation ahead.

There had been some talk of delaying action on the pact until summer, when the senate could remain in Washington or work on the agreement while the house goes home.

Washington, April 5—(P)—President Truman is expected to send the North Atlantic Treaty to the senate before the end of this week with an appeal for speedy approval.

This is one of three major steps which officials forecast today for carrying out the pact that the president proclaimed last night as "a milestone in history."

The treaty was signed by 12 western nations in a solemn, fast-moving ceremony yesterday afternoon.

How soon the senate might act is uncertain; the issue is controversial and other major legislation is crying for attention.

The other two steps in prospect to implement the treaty are these:

1. Completion of an American arms aid program, costing close to $2,000,000,000. Mr. Truman is expected to recommend this to congress early next week.

2. Discussions among the 12 treaty powers on organization of a Council and Defense Committee. Their assignment would be to unify the defenses of the non-Communist western world under the new alliance.

The arms program probably will provide between $1,250,000,000 and $2,000,000,000.

Bobby Soxer Charged With Man's Death

Waukegan, Ill., April 5—(P)—A teen-age, bobby soxer who told police she had been keeping company with a 52 year old married man for two years, was in jail today on a charge of murder in connection with his slaying.

Police Chief William A. MacDonald said the girl, Joyce Schumaker, 17, told him she fatally shot her married lover, Carl Reeder, as they sat in his automobile yesterday with her teen-age girl friend.

Reeder was a clerk-janitor at the Waukegan township high school.

Chief MacDonald said the blonde, attractive laundry worker told him the shooting followed a quarrel. MacDonald related she told him they quarreled because she was "not satisfied" with his assurance that he would divorce his wife and marry her, after he had "straightened things out."

The police chief quoted her as saying, "I told him if I couldn't have him, nobody was going to have him."

MacDonald said Joyce Kilpatrick, 17, accompanied the couple on a drive along the Lake Michigan shore and witnessed the shooting. Both girls formerly attended the Waukegan township school.

The police chief said the Schumaker girl told him that after she shot Reeder with her brother's .22 caliber pistol she took him to a hospital where he died.

Miss Schumaker then drove to a dress shop where Mrs. Reeder worked and told her of the shooting.

Police said the Schumaker girl, who wore bobby sox, saddle shoes (Turn to Page Seven)

Grant Ball Players Hearing on Appeal

New York, April 5—(P)—A motion by John L. Flynn, attorney for two suspended St. Louis Cardinals pitchers, for an early hearing in litigation they initiated to win reinstatement to baseball was granted today by the U. S. court of appeals of the second judicial circuit.

The pitchers, Max Lanier and Fred Martin, asked an early hearing by Federal Judge Edward A. Conger last week denying their motion for a preliminary order directing organized baseball to permit them to play immediately.

Lanier and Martin are among several former Major League players under the five-year suspensions for jumping to the Mexican league in 1946.

Mark F. Hughes, counsel for organized baseball, did not oppose Flynn's motion. Presiding Judge Harry E. Chase said the action was taken by a 13-9 secret ballot. Snowden refused, however, to say that the committee vote killed the bill.

On the one side, the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association insisted the weight change is necessary to remove a trade barrier. On the other, the Pennsylvania Association of Township Supervisors argued heavier trucks would damage local roads and bridges.

"It's a free-for-all with Republicans and Democratic senators on both sides," commented one committee member in advance of the meeting.

Liquor Store Held Up

Burgess, April 5—(P)—Two liquor store clerks lost their wallets and their trousers in a holdup last night at the state liquor store in this Washington county community. A lone gunman ordered George Gillespie and Harry Smith to remove their trousers and hand them to him. He rifled the cash register of some $130, then took the trousers and the wallets they contained with him. The men said they lost about $20, each.

EDITOR APPOINTED

Pittsburgh, April 5—(P)—George Stuart, Republican, and editor of The Valley Daily News, Tarentum, was appointed to the unexpired term on the country planning commission of the late Charles F. Howe, Daily News publisher. Stuart's appointment to the term, expiring Jan. 1, 1951, still leaves a vacancy created by the death of Theodore Eicholz, local architect.

Daylight Saving Time Is Adopted by Boro Council

Uncle Sam Getting Ready to Count Noses

Washington, April 5—(P)—The 1950 census is expected to show a U. S. population of 150,000,000 persons—up around 19,000,000 from the 1940 census of 131,669,275.

This forecast was made by J. S. Capt, director of the Census Bureau, in outlining plans for the 17th decennial census. He appeared at a house appropriations subcommittee hearing on which reports were made public today.

The 1950 census, to be conducted between April 1 and June next year, will be the bureau's biggest such job since its first national nose-count in 1790.

Daylight Savings Time was adopted officially for Warren borough at the April meeting of Town Council in the Municipal building last night.

The solons, by a vote of 14 to 3, approved a resolution adopting "fast time" at midnight on Saturday, April 23. It will remain in effect until midnight, September 23. The three dissenting votes against the resolution were cast by J. A. Karlson, G. H. Klinefister and C. A. Maier.

The town fathers also devoted a considerable portion of their meeting to a general discussion of street improvements, with nothing definite being decided.

Chairman D. W. Lewis said the new construction and new projects committee would have some definite recommendations for street improvement ready for the May council meeting.

He warned, however, that the $24,000 set aside in the 1949 budget for this work would "be just a drop in the bucket" for any extensive paving program.

Mentioned prominently in the discussion as the streets most likely to be paved if any work is done were Lexington avenue, South Market street, West Fifth avenue and South Carver street. Proposed widening of St. Clair street on the south side to provide better access to the Warren General Hospital also entered into the discussions.

Much of the heated debate centered around a legal question of whether an experimental type of paving now under consideration constituted a "permanent improvement." This paving, which has been used in Corry, North East, Emporium, and other northwestern Pennsylvania communities—apparently with success—involves discarding and rolling asphalt paving materials into the present street surface in the necessity of a rock foundation.

It was pointed out that this type of surfacing holds up remarkably well on streets where there is not too much truck traffic, and that it is much cheaper to install than the standard paving of rock base and top dressing. The solons indicated that they hope to try out this new type of surfacing on a Warren sidestreet sometime this year.

A new police regulation for traffic control at the intersections of Pennsylvania avenue, east, and Conewango avenue, and Pennsylvania avenue, east, and Franklin street, was turned down by the solons by a 14 to three vote.

The new regulation proposed placing of signs on the traffic lights at those intersections which would have banned left turns by eastbound motorists in Pennsylvania avenue between the peak traffic hours of 3:30 p. m. and 5:30 p. m.

In voting down the proposal, the solons pointed out that there would be no effective way of enforcing the measure, and that a better plan would be to ban parking in Pennsylvania avenue near the intersections so that through traffic could keep moving, while those wanting to make a left turn could remain in the center lane until oncoming traffic cleared.

Council also took action on other matters, as follows:

On recommendation of the Finance Committee, $200 each was appropriated to the local G. A. R., American Legion and V. F. W. organizations for use in Memorial Day observances.

The Streets Committee was authorized to purchase 2000 gallons of tar at a cost not to exceed $500 for Third avenue. The same committee also was directed to investigate complaints that the New York Central crossings and right-of-way in Fourth avenue is badly in need of repair.

The matter of investigating what can be done about a deep mudhole in a short alley between Swiss and Locust streets also was turned over to the Streets Committee. The solicitor is checking old records to determine whether this alley is a private way, as claimed by one property owner, or whether it was accepted as part of the borough's street system when the Glade section became part of the borough some 40 years ago.

The police committee received authorization to advertise for bids for 26 parking meter heads, which will be used at a new all-night parking lot at rear of the municipal building. Chairman Wayne Painter said the meters would cost between $65 and $70 each, or a total of about $1800. He said the all-night parking facilities now being set up would take care of 26 cars.

The Fire, and Public Service and Ordinance committees, along with the borough solicitor and engineer were authorized to confer with Warren Water Company officials to see what can be done about improving the community's water main and hydrant system.

The Parks and Playgrounds committee was authorized to work

Town Fathers Devote Much Time at April Meeting On Proposed Street Projects

MANY PATIENTS DIE IN THEIR FLAMING ROOMS AS NUNS AND FIREMEN ATTEMPT RESCUES

Effingham, Ill., April 5—(P)—More than 50 persons, including at least 11 new-born infants, were reported killed today in a fierce fire that destroyed St. Anthony's Hospital.

Hospital and firefighting officials said the death toll may reach 60. At least 15 bodies were removed.

The Red Cross said that at least 60 patients escaped. Arthur Jones of St. Louis, Red Cross disaster director, said the total was reported in a check of nearby homes and hospitals.

The fire was discovered shortly before midnight in a laundry chute. Eyewitnesses said the 60 year old, three and one half story brick structure quickly became a mass of flames.

"It burned so fast, it couldn't be fought," said one rescuer. Many patients leaped from windows. Some died in their flaming rooms as nuns and townspeople tried to save them.

The bodies of 11 infants, still in their flame-blackened metal cribs on the second floor, were the first to be removed.

Uncounted bodies were strewn on upper floors. There were about 30 patients on the third floor, a nurse said, "and I don't believe any of them got out."

Effingham is a community of 8,000 in south central Illinois, 100 miles northeast of St. Louis and 200 miles southeast of Chicago, on the Pennsylvania and Illinois Central railroads.

Hundreds of the city's residents rushed to the aid of the 100 or more patients in the 125-bed hospital. But they were hampered by falling bricks and rubble, and the danger of falling walls.

Inside, the Roman Catholic nuns who were on duty braved the flames to lead some patients to safety. Some nuns died in the attempt, and others were injured in their rooms, where they were asleep.

The hospital is operated by the Sisters of the Order of St. Francis.

The hospital chaplain, Father Sandon, died in the fire. His charred body was found in a room next to the hospital chapel.

Dr. George Wood, staff physician, estimated the number of dead at 56 or 58. Lt. Nelson Page of the Illinois state police said the toll is from 60 to 65. Chief J. H. Green of the Effingham police said "There's no way of telling."

Only some walls stood early today. The intense heat of the smoldering ruins and the tangled debris slowed removal of the bodies.

Carl Alt, 66, who lives across the street from the hospital, said flames were shooting out of the hospital's front entrance shortly after the alarm was sounded. He and a neighbor helped 12 to 15 persons to safety.

Max Beiderhorn, 66, a male nurse, was badly burned in helping 12 patients to safety down an elevator. He said the sister who found the fire in a laundry chute got him out of bed.

"The whole place was a bath of flame," he said.

Beiderhorn said there were at least eight new-born infants in (Turn to Page Seven)

UN Assembly Opens Today in New York

New York, April 5—(P)—The opening of the United Nations Assembly today brings Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko face to face with the signers of the Atlantic Pact at a tense and potentially explosive moment.

Many delegates believe Gromyko may soon give the clue to what Russia intends to do about the defensive alliance which the Russians say is aimed against them. But the Russians are guarding their plans carefully here.

Whatever the Soviet plans may be, Secretary of State Dean Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and the other signatories of the pact expected to be on hand.

They announced in Washington the week before for New York individually, either last night or this morning.

The 58-nation assembly is scheduled to meet at Flushing Meadow Park, at 3 p. m., just less than 24 hours after 12 foreign ministers signed the new treaty.

Although the pact was not on the assemblyman's agenda, it was the leading topic of conversation and few believed the session could pass without a bitter east-west clash on this subject.

According to the published schedule, today's meeting is confined to an opening address by Australian Delegate Herbert V. Evatt, assembly president. His associates said he would make a strong plea (Turn to Page Seven)

TEEN AGE GIRLS ARE HELD FOR ROBBERIES

Pittsburgh, April 5—(P)—Six teen agers who police said committed nearly a score of robberies and won the name of the "Saturday night gang" were given indeterminate sentences yesterday to the Camp Hill Reformatory.

The six pleaded guilty to robbery counts yesterday, along with John Mancini, 30, who admitted receiving stolen goods. He was sentenced to two to four years in the workhouse. The largest single robbery which the youths admitted was the $8,000 lootings several months ago of the John F. McGraw home in Fox Chapel.

What Representatives Think About When They Cast Votes

By CLARKE BEACH

Washington—What do Congressmen think about when they cast their votes in the House of Representatives?

Many of them have thinking apparatuses with a kind of high and low gear. This was clearly demonstrated when two votes were taken on a motion to kill the veterans' pension bill. On the first vote the majority of Congressmen decided to kill the bill. On the second vote, taken within an hour the majority decided not to kill it.

On the first vote the House was sitting as a "committee of the whole" when an individual's vote is not recorded. On the second vote the body was sitting at the House of Representatives, and a record was kept of how each member voted.

When the vote was taken in committee status, 163 members voted to kill the measure. When they voted in House status, only 120 voted to kill. Thus at least 43 Congressmen either switched sides or failed to vote when the roll was called.

"I voted on principle when my vote wasn't on the record," one well-known legislator jovially explained. "When I was on the record, I rose above principle and voted politically." Another member, one of the 120 who stuck by his original vote, got a good natured slap on the back from a colleague after the balloting was over.

"Well, guess we won't be seeing you around here any more after next year," said the colleague. "It's great to be a statesman. But I'd rather be a live Congressman than a dead statesman."

Rep. Javits (R-N. Y.) said on the floor that he had made up his mind after a sleepless night to vote against the pension measure. "If we are taken in by this, we don't deserve to be trusted with the destiny of America, much less that of the world," he remarked.

One congressman told the reporter that on every roll call vote some member or other risks his political future by voting in a way that he knows will be unpopular among his constituents. The folks back home probably won't read the Congressional record, and many of them will not know at the time how he voted. But there is always someone back home waiting for him to make a slip. That someone undoubtedly will use the record against him when campaign times comes.

If he is licked, he won't be in the House to vote the right way when some other measure comes up which may be more important. Thus runs the philosophy of many members, says one seasoned Representative. Many say that eventually they want to do something good for their country but that if they don't stay in Congress they'll never be able to do it.

The issues which can be poisonous generally concern the constituents' pocketbooks, one congressman noted. Their pensions, taxes, agricultural and other subsidies, the building of public works, the extension of government controls over business.

Some of the poisonous issues, he went on, carry their own antidotes. If you cast a vote for oleomargarine, you antagonize the dairymen but you gain the support of the housewives. If you cast a vote that angers labor you gain the support of management. If you back rent control you make landlords your enemy but gain friends among tenants.

"But when you cast a vote that seems to be against veterans," he said, "you are against them."

Phalanx Club Has Induction Ceremonies

A very impressive induction ceremony following a tureen supper was on the program schedule for the Warren Phalanx Club meeting held last evening at the YMCA. Including the officers, 38 boys were formally inducted into the club. During the ceremonial, the symbols of Phalanx were explained by the officers, attired in black robes and performing the service by candlelight.

After the members had been formally inducted, Jim Hengst, boys' work secretary of the "Y," swore in the officers. The charter was presented by Emory Nelson, who was introduced by C. B. Lovejoy, general secretary from Meadville. Nelson, who is the associate director of World Service, gave a brief but impressive talk to the group. Deeply interested in young people's work, he stressed the importance of the group's continuing with its plans for a youth canteen. He also stated he believed that with present world conditions as they are, all must work as Christians to help each other, near and far.

Following his address, he showed a movie depicting work of some of the YMCA secretaries in Japan. Officers of the group, first to be inducted, were: Primus, Dick Bean; pro primus, Stan White; tribune, Joe Salerno; questor, Tom Campbell; with Jim Abern, R. C. Babcock, James Beckenbaugh, Clyde Beabe, Dennis Bonace, Ira Brown, Jack Doyle and Dale Drumm.

Services Held For Pittsfield Soldier

Final rites were held at the Young Funeral Home in Youngville at 2 p. m. Sunday for Pvt. Martin O. Irvine, of Pittsfield, R.I., who was killed in action in France in 1944.

The service was conducted by the Rev. Edgar Johnson, of Sugar Grove, with officers and members of Halgren-Wilcox Post, No. 658, American Legion of Youngville, in charge of the military ritual. Raymond Barton, past commander, was in charge, with the following serving as bearers: Herman Mourer, K. R. Wood, B. E. Campbell, Ford Osgood, Verne Jones, Victor Artico, Raymond Fales and Henry Danielson.

The firing squad, under the command of Donald Martin, included Pete Pokosh, Carl Lindberg, J. Borton, Edwood Peterson, Frank Teydus, Wyllys Johnson and Jack Daley.

Color bearers were John McCanna and Robert York; color guards, Jack Wood and William Mourer. Robert Hutley was bugler for "Tops" and Clair Schnell served as chaplain.

SO THEY SAY

That source (of America's strength) is our ethical and moral standards of precepts, and our democratic faith in man. This faith is the chief armament of our democracy. It is the most potent weapon ever devised. Compared with it, the atomic bomb is a firecracker. — David E. Lilienthal, chairman, Atomic Energy Commission.

LAYOFF AT OIL CITY

Oil Well Supply Co., a subsidiary of U. S. Steel Corp., at Oil City, has laid off eighty of approximately 1,800 employees at the Imperial Works at Siverly. A spokesman, announcing the layoff last night, attributed it to "a slackening of orders for drilling and pumping equipment."

Penn'a Joins Keep America Green Move

Pennsylvania, long a pioneer in the field of forestry, joined the Keep America Green movement March 11. The action was taken at Harrisburg during the sixty-second annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Forestry Association, sponsor of the Keep Green program in that state.

The Keystone State's action brings to 25 the number of states now actively participating in the national Keep America Green forest fire prevention program. Together these states represent well over half the Nation's land area. In addition to being the newest Keep Green affiliate, Pennsylvania is also the most populous state participating in the program. Keep America Green is sponsored nationally by American Forest Products Industries of Washington, D. C.

One of the highlights of the Keep Green organization meeting was the address of James H. Duff, governor of Pennsylvania. Following his talk the governor received the Pennsylvania Forestry Association's "Conservation Award." The Pennsylvania organization is the oldest state forestry association in the United States.

Other speakers participating in the Keep Green meeting included: O. Ben Gipple, director of the Bureau of Forests, Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters; H. Gleason Mattoon, president of the state association; and Samuel A. Custer, executive secretary of the forestry group. Custer, a 1942 Penn State forestry graduate, is in charge of organizing Keep Green committees in each Pennsylvania's 67 counties.

H. B. Rowland, chief of the protection division of the State Department of Forests and Waters, endorsed the Keep Green movement in a talk in which he outlined the history of forest protection work in Pennsylvania. In 1948 the state had an outstanding forest fire prevention record, holding its losses to 12,700 acres burned over, Rowland said.

George H. Wirt, one of the men most responsible for developing Pennsylvania's outstanding forest protection system, termed the Keep Green campaign, "the most important next step in the state's forestry program."

Members of the state Keep Pennsylvania Green committee at Harrisburg included: P. E. Glatfelter of the Glatfelter Paper Co., Spring Grove, chairman; Mr. Rowland of the State Department of Forests and Waters; George H. Wirt, consulting forester, Camp Hill; Judge Robert R. Lewis, Connersport; Charles F. Chubb, Pittsburg; Robert A. Harrier, Bethlehem; and Mr. Custer, the association's executive secretary.

DEBATE TOURNAMENT

First two rounds of the annual Allegheny college-sponsored debate tournament for area high school students were held Friday in Meadville with 13 schools participating.

100 PER CENT

At the meeting of the Seventh District, Pennsylvania State Nurses Association, held at Warren State Hospital recently, recognition was given to Buhl Hospital in Sharon and Warren State Hospital for having 100% membership in the state association.

CANCER FUND

The McKean county unit of the American Cancer society Friday started the annual campaign for funds with the county quota set at $9,500. Kane's quota was set at $1,400 and Chairman W. G. Cummings reported the solicitation there will be conducted by mail.

RADIO NETWORK

Scheduled to go into operation Saturday, a four-city two-way police radio network may be delayed several days, according to Meadville Police Chief Edward C. Griffith. Workmen still were constructing the antenna tower in Meadville on Saturday. The system will cover Oil City, Franklin, Meadville and Sharon.

RED CROSS DRIVE LIMPS

Red Cross service in Titusville and the surrounding area will be seriously curtailed if the quota of $12,470 is not reached, it was announced Friday evening. About 75 per cent of the goal had been reached in the fund drive, which officially closed April 1. The drive will be continued in the hope the full amount will be obtained. Officials stated.

AGED MAN FLEEDED

Pennsylvania state police Saturday were reported seeking whereabouts of a man and woman, who, it is alleged, fled from Andy Turin, 69-year-old Blooming Valley man, of some $268 in savings. Sgt. C. C. Naddeo, commanding the Meadville substation, said information has been filed with Alderman D. Lemme against Virgil Haven and Daisy Wilson, "wanderers with no fixed abode."

"ATOM GENERAL" TO SPEAK

General Leslie R. Groves, the "atom general" who headed the wartime Manhattan project, will speak at a public lecture Monday evening, April 11, in the auditorium of Meadville high school. The lecture is being sponsored by the Meadville American Viscose Corporation's Foremen's club. Viscose officials stated tickets will be given free to anyone wishing to attend.

BOOMS PA. GRADE CRUDE

Says an Associated Press dispatch from Washington: He didn't recommend it as a bread spread, but Rep. Leon H. Gavin, of Oil City, interrupted the butter-oil debate last week to put in a plug for Pennsylvania Grade Crude oil. Gavin said he had listened with deep interest to the discussions on cottonseed oil, soy bean oil, peanut oil and the other oils that are employed in the manufacture of margarine, then he added: "So I thought I would just take a minute or two to call to the attention of the members that Pennsylvania is the home of Pennsylvania Grade crude oil, the finest lubricating oil in the world. 'Super-refined and known and used the world over, I can highly recommend to the membership Pennsylvania Grade crude oil."

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

New York.—(P)—A price cut trail that started almost unnoticed months ago in the nation's junk yards is leading at last to lowered listings on more and more automobiles.

The cuts are small, so far, and what you save on buying the new car—Ford's announcement is the fourth in the industry recently—you may pay out before the summer is over in higher gasoline prices.

Because some oil companies today are raising the price of gas, just as warm weather brings out peak demand. Recently they have been cutting prices on home heating fuel oil, as warm weather cuts off the demand.

Oil companies say they can't refine gasoline from $2.65 a barrel crude oil and make a profit at the old price. Their other costs have been rising, the companies say. Several states are ordering production of crude curtailed to keep the price up. That is necessary, they contend, to incite men to seek new oil fields and increase the nation's oil reserves.

But in the auto, and some other heavy industries, the junkman's early sighting of deflation is now appearing where you can see it—in price cuts on the end products of metals.

The auto companies are now profiting from the price breaks in raw materials in the last few months, the ending of premium prices on scarce materials, and the piling up of supplies that assure that America's noted mass-production lines move ahead steadily instead of jerkily.

Scrap steel prices dropped months ago. Refined steel prices are little changed. But the drop in scrap prices in time saved the gray market. Then conversion leas ended. Steel production, meantime, moved to record highs.

All of these raw material price cuts look small at the time, but they finally work down to the finished product. Copper scrap also dropped in price, and premium prices for copper, lead and zinc became things of the past. Recently lead has tumbled and zinc eased. Copper prices are confused at the moment, with consumers out of the market waiting to see whether price cuts aren't coming.

But non-ferrous metal end-products have eased.

General Cable Corp. today drops the price of building wire products to 5 to 10 per cent. These wire prices have been cut 20 to 25 per cent since the first of the year.

Home appliance makers are saving millions now in no longer paying premium prices for steel, copper and other raw materials. They promise lower prices on refrigerators, radios and washers.

But not everything is going down. For instance, sugar is creeping upward slightly. Refiners are testing out the quota set by the government on Cuban imports now that the peak demand for sugar is approaching. The government set the quota fairly low, the trade says, to keep sugar prices high enough to induce beet growers to put in good acreage. The United States wants to keep its domestic sugar industry healthy enough to be dependable in time of war.

Hal Boyle's Comment

By HAL BOYLE
New York—(P)—It is welcome news indeed that a radio giveaway show is offering a live elephant as a prize.
This is a milestone in the field of education. Wait and see.
To win the elephant all you have to do is answer a phone call and identify a certain tune played on a certain program. This requires no Toscanini knowledge of music. It requires no long hours of library research.
The correct answers to these radio quiz contests now are printed in $1 tip sheets, hawked on the streets around Broadway's neon temples. They are much more accurate than the four-bit tout cards peddled at most racetracks.
The offer of a free elephant is a sure sign that at last the radio giveaway programs are growing up. The industry is maturing. For too long they have competed to see which could give away the oddest assortment of zany prizes. A typical package might include a trip to the south pole, four brassieres, a motor car, 200 used pogo sticks, a sow complete with litter, a refrigerator, a stove, a motor car and a leaky Liberty ship.
The winner of such a package was no longer a human being. He became a human hock shop, frantically seeking bidders for his impractical loot.
This chaos is reduced to order at one master stroke by the offer of an elephant. A live whale as first prize would have been only an elfin gesture. All a man can learn from a whale is how to swim. But an elephant—there's some-

Local Factory Exhibits At Recent Lighting Exposition

The Solar Electric Corp. of Warren attracted considerable attention at the recent International Lighting Exposition in Chicago for its exhibit in which several new developments in fluorescent lighting were disclosed.
Representing the company at the expo were Stuart J. Myers, Weston Ensworth, William Dasher, Robert Dunham, Robert White, Richard Gilson and Eddie Sullivan, newly appointed director of sales for Solar.
The exhibit included a display of several newly-designed types of 20 and 40 watt fluorescent lamps, all of which expose a decorative motif in the fluorescent phosphor itself.
Since the company first produced fluorescent tubes its engineers have attempted to put to some use the fact that the light available on the inside of the tube was much greater than the light which permeated the phosphor coating and became available as usable light.
In this new line of deluxe lamps the bright internal light is allowed to pass out of the tube by removing a portion of the powdered fluorescent phosphor.
When these lamps are placed in fixtures they give the decorative effect of louvers without the inefficiency usually associated with louvers.
These lamps will be particularly useful as their installation, although placed in drab fixtures, will inexpensively modernize the entire appearance of smart establishments.
Also displayed at the exhibit was the first fluorescent lamp that

DOES YOUR HOME HAVE OCTOPUS OUTLETS?

ELECTRICAL Living in most homes, like Topsy, "just grew". A new lamp was added here, a new appliance there, etc., until many convenience outlets became "octopus outlets". These multi-armed outlets are unsightly, inadequate and even downright dangerous.

If you are guilty of stringing extension cords along the baseboard, consult your electrician about adding new circuits and extra outlets. The cost will be more than offset by the added convenience and improved appliance performance. Remember that—"Adequate Wiring Serves and Saves".

rooms. They are loyal and won't gossip about your household affairs, as some maids have been known to do.
An elephant won on the radio should be regarded, for tax purposes, as a capital gain rather than as pure income. The owner could read him the encyclopedia—or send him to Harvard. After that he could become quickly wealthy by letting the elephant, a beast of fabulous memory, compete for him on the radio giveaways.
Who knows? Some day they may put a human being up as first prize—and an elephant will win him.

Clymer Road Slated For Improvement

Corry Journal: The remaining unpaved link in the Clymer-Columbus road is scheduled to be paved this Summer, creating a blacktop roadway the entire length of that route, it was learned Saturday.
S. W. Jackson, highway superintendent for this district with offices at Franklin, disclosed that a recommendation has been forwarded to the Harrisburg offices of the department that the unpaved stretch from the Warren county line to the New York state line be paved.
In addition, Assemblyman W. W. Waterhouse of this city disclosed he has been given assurance that the roadway will be included in projects to be completed this year.
With the General Assembly still in session the exact amount of funds available for the highway department this season is not known, Mr. Jackson said, but the stretch will be given a priority in planning the district work.
Although definite plans concerning the project have not been made, Mr. Jackson stated the job will probably be done with county highway forces putting down a roadway similar to that built by the Warren county department forces last Summer.
At that time funds were available for the Warren county section and a serviceable blacktop road was placed over the unpaved section to the Warren-Erie county line on what is known as legislative Route 61018. The remaining portion of the road is known as legislative Route 25055, which runs from the county line to the intersection where the crossover road from the Corry-Clymer route joins it, and legislative Route 25093 for the balance of the distance to the New York line.
The section to be paved is approximately one and three-quarter miles, Mr. Jackson said, in comparison to the Warren county section of 9.169 feet.
The decision to pave the former Plant road comes as the result of more than 10 years of continuing effort on the part of residents along the roadway and others throughout this section interested in the development of the route.
In addition to that paving project, it is strongly rumored that

Serious Talk About Future Of Academy

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer
New York—Newspapers here have been full of news about the Motion Picture academy. It's time for serious talk about the future of the academy.
The issue arose when Academy President Jean Hersholt resigned with a blast against producers who opposed the annual awards. The producers replied with a few mortar shells aimed at "Dr. Christian." Ired at the way Oscars are handed out, the big boys pulled the financial support from under the academy.

Let's face it—the academy is an imperfect organization. Its original purpose is often clouded or ignored. It was founded twenty-one years ago to reward artistic and scientific achievements in the movies.
Academy awards have added stature to the much-maligned industry. But they have often been handed out because of politics and sentiment, no matter how strongly the academy denies it.
The academy is a costly operation. It maintains a library, theater, a sizable staff and a publicity office. Its annual affair is done in the Hollywood manner—expensively. It has no endowments, as the Nobel and Pulitzer awards do. Someone has to foot the bill and so far it has been the major studios.
With the studios cutting costs wherever they can, the academy is one of the casualties.
However, the academy says it will carry on and find some way of financing the awards.
But if no other support comes forth, the academy will have to slice its expenses to the bone or die. It seems doubtful that the long and rich tradition of the awards will be ended. Perhaps a cheaper and more accurate means can be found to reward movie beasts.
The academy probably will survive, in some form at least. After twenty years of being shot at, Oscar is a tough guy to kill.
The skull of an African type lion was unearthed in Alaska in 1935.

Impressive Rite In Army Citadel

One of the most beautiful weddings ever witnessed in the local Salvation Army citadel, was solemnized on Monday evening, March 22, at 8 p. m., when Ruth M. Morse, daughter of Mrs. Goldie Morse, and the late Frank A. Morse, and Sumner H. Darr, son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Darr, were united in marriage by Rev. Charles Schaffer, officer in charge of the local corps, using the impressive Salvation Army service.

The bridal party also included Mrs. Grant Turnbull as matron of honor; Mr. Turnbull, as best man; Patricia Frontena, as flower girl; Charles L. Schaffer and Candidate Robert Frye as ring bearers. Violinist Is Guest Artist In Spring Orchestra Event

Arthur Briggs, Jr., instructor of violin at the Warren Conservatory of Music and well known local musician, will be guest artist for the spring concert to be presented Thursday evening by the Warren High School Orchestra.

According to announcement made earlier by Director Harry Summers, the affair will take place in Warren High School auditorium, with the Beatty Junior High School Orchestra as guest organization. Program details will be announced in these columns tomorrow.

Several other musical events of the spring and early summer season will include the Junior High School Music Festival to be held at Beatty building on April 21; the annual National Music Week concert on May 3, in Beatty; the High School A Cappella Choir Concert to be presented for the first time in Beatty gym by Director Carroll Fowler on May 19; the annual Senior Week Concert by the Dragon Band, under Mr. Summers' direction, on June 2.

Girls' School Is Scene of Action For Senior Play

"The Mummy and the Mumps," by Larry E. Johnson, which has been chosen by the senior class of Warren High School for its class play to be presented on Thursday and Friday evenings, April 28-29, in the high school auditorium, is a three-act farce full of exciting incidents and intriguing moments to keep the audience both convulsed with laughter and delightfully mystified.

The scene of the play is a girls' school near Boston during vacation time. Only three students, Agatha Laidlaw, the owner, her nephew, Bill, and the hired help remain at the school. Excitement begins when reports come to Miss Laidlaw that jewels belonging to one of the girls are missing. Further distress is caused by the telegram that the scholarly Sir Hector Fish, whom she is expecting for a lecture course, has the mumps and is under quarantine. However, Sir Hector has shipped his valuable mummy to the school and has sent explicit directions on how it is to be handled.

In the meantime Bill's old friend, Brisky Briscoe, arrives. Refusing Bill's invitation to spend the summer there, Brisky changes his mind when he sees Maude Mullen. But when he finds that boys are not permitted to talk to the students, in desperation he assumes the identity of the absent Sir Hector.

The mummy duly arrives and from there on the action leads into a climax that is cleverly built up by the writer but cannot be revealed in advance without depriving the audience of the suspense and thrills that come with the play's ending.

Mix Seed With Sand, and Scatter Over Area as Evenly as Possible.

Give Flower Seed Special Care When Sown in Garden

All annual flower seeds may be sown directly in the garden; and there are a number which should be, because they are difficult to transplant. These include alyssum, California poppy, godetia, lachia, leptosyne, linaria, lupin, matthiola (evening scented stock), nasturtium, dwarf phlox, poppies, portulaca, and salpiglossis.

Failure with flower seed sown in a garden bed or border is often due to lack of care. Much the same technique should be used as in sowing in a seed box, particularly as to shallow planting, and covering the seeds with porous soil. Identification of the seeds, and of their location, are also important, since with slow germinators it is easy to forget exactly where they were sown. Care will be well repaid. Seeds are subject to many hazards which human skill cannot wholly avoid, but the careful operator may count upon a high average of success.

Prepare a smooth seed bed, loosening the soil to a depth of six inches. Work into it 4 pounds of plant food for each 100 square feet. Then outline with a string the area to be covered with each variety. Mix the seed with sand to help scatter it over the space as evenly as possible. Then sift a light covering of porous soil over the seed and firm it lightly.

Now, until the seeds sprout the soil must be kept moist; and this requires daily sprinkling with a fine spray, taking care not to wash the seeds out of the soil. You should know when to expect the seeds to sprout. The table at right is based upon experience in seed laboratories. In your garden the period may be more or less by a few days, but it will serve as a guide.

County group visiting is getting popular in Warren county. Garden Clubs are visiting around and a large number is expected this evening in the local high school gymnasium for a dinner-meeting and program.

Recently a Tidoute high school group greatly pleased by a program presented by their high school students at the Youngsville school assembly. Their program was a one-act play, "Comin' round the Mountain," and also pantomime number. Youngsville high school Dramatic Club presented a one-act play before the Tidoute student body early in this school year at Tidoute.

It was planned to rival Phi Beta Kappa, arts and sciences honorary, which does not accept engineers. The Alpha Chapter at Kentucky was established in 1902.

out a new lease with the School Board for the Lacy school playgrounds which provide toilet facilities for that play area. T. K. Creal, II, said the school board is now considering a plan to make outside entrances to the school toilets available when the playgrounds are in use. The borough will likely stand 50 percent of the cost of installing the new doorways under the new lease.

The Sidewalks and Bridges committee received permission to advertise for bids for painting the Third avenue and Fifth avenue bridges spanning the Conewango Creek. The same committee also was authorized to spend up to $500 for needed repairs, mostly welding, on the spans.

The Parks and Playgrounds committee received permission to purchase a 21-inch power lawn mower at a cost not to exceed $150.

The Finance Committee was instructed to make a routine audit of the accounts of the Warren airport.

It was also decided that preschool clinics will be held the week of May 4-11, despite the fact that the state board of health has withdrawn its support of this program. A schedule of clinics will be announced a bit later.

Use of the high school auditorium was granted the Warren Field and Stream Club on April 12; the Warren Barbershop Chorus on May 14; Pleasant Grange on May 21. Lacy PTA was granted use of that building for a lecture by Dr. Samuel Robbins on April 12 and McClintock PTA for an evening of games in the West Side school on April 27. The Home Street Mothers' Club was allowed use of the building for an April 7 picnic.

Warren Commandery, Knights Templar, asked permission for the Dragon parade from the Temple to the First Presbyterian church on Sunday, May 15, the permission of the board stipulating that any student may be excused if he or his parents so desire.

Subject to action by borough council, the board approved plans for comfort station entrances at the different playgrounds, council to pay half the cost of construction and assume responsibility of supervision during the hours the playgrounds are in use.

Continuation of night school was authorized, as were courses in directed correspondence work, visual aids, swimming instruction at the YMCA and penmanship supervision, with approval of an appropriation to cover field trips made by pupils of the elementary grades.

Expenses from the general fund were approved in the amount of $3,272.96 and from the special funds in the sum of $3,132.91. Cafeteria figures for the month were reported as $4,809.98, during which period the high school and Beaty buildings served 11,295 Type A lunches and 15,491 half pints of milk.

Receipts from the state included $1,393.39 on the lunch program; subsidy, $12.69 for sight-saving books; and $83,666.05 as the second and final payment on the subsidy for teachers' salaries.

Adjournment was taken until the regular date in May, when the preliminary budget for next school term will be presented. Following the three-week period required for its advertising and viewing by the public, a special meeting will be called for its adoption by the board.

Canalization of River Bobs up at Meeting of City Dads

Barge Canal by the way of the Genesee valley in New York state would, of necessity eliminate the plans for the Allegheny river flood control reservoir at Kinzua. Gavin said he was introducing the bill because Army Engineers now seem more receptive to the idea of a through waterway in the Allegheny Valley than they have been in the past.

So far the Allegheny river is navigable from its junction with the Monongahela at Pittsburgh as far north as East Brady in Clarion county. Nine locks and dams were required to make the stream navigable that far.

Previous surveys by the engineers indicated that an additional 28 locks and dams would be required to make the Allegheny river navigable for big boats between East Brady and Olean, N. Y.

As a result of the previous surveys, the Engineers gave tentative approval to a plan to extend the present head of navigation from East Brady, which is considered a "twilight zone" so far as present industries in that area are concerned, as far north as Oil City, where there is considerable concentration of oil and manufacturing interests. In the same report, the Engineers said they could not recommend slackwatering the Allegheny above Oil City because it was "economically unjustified" due to the prohibitive costs.

$1,500,000,000 for American help in rearming the European members of the alliance. The balance of the funds would go to aid other non-Communist countries such as Greece, Turkey and Iran.

Officials said that no action toward forming the 12-nation council can be taken until the treaty comes into force, but plans for the organization and the defense committee under it can be worked out ahead of time.

The actual enforcement of the pact depends on its being ratified by the seven nations which originally drafted it. That, in turn, depends mainly upon its approval by two-thirds of the U. S. Senate because without senate consent the president cannot formally declare this nation's full adherence to the allies.

In addition to the United States, the other nations which must ratify the pact are Britain, Canada, France, The Netherlands, Belgium, and Luxembourg. The other five which signed the pact here yesterday were Norway, Denmark, Iceland, Portugal and Italy.

The signing ceremony was held in the government's departmental auditorium before an audience composed largely of diplomats, members of congress and top government officials. There were some unhappiness on Capitol Hill that all members of congress were not invited until almost the last minute.

Cops and Students Scuffle in Anti-Bevin Demonstration

Police and pickets struggle in a brief skirmish outside the New York pier where Ernest Bevin, Britain's foreign secretary, landed from the Queen Mary. Some 800 pickets, mostly college and high school students, protested what they called Bevin's "anti-Semitic statements and hostile attitude toward the fate of Israel." Note girl at right holding egg. Bevin was the intended target of a thrown tomato, which missed.

Rent Control Picture Is a 'Spotty' One

This map shows areas under federal rent control as the Housing and Rent Act of 1947 expired and the new "compromise" rent control bill enacted by Congress went into effect. In the areas shown on the map are approximately 14,250,000 controlled rental units, plus 500,000 others under lease, which were not controlled. Under the new law, the latter will return to control at current lease rents. Map data from Office of the Housing Expediter. Numbers designate control areas. Note that there is no Area Seven.

Sen. McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

PROPER WAY TO USE NO TRUMP OVERCALL

By WILLIAM E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written for NEA Service
The other night I had dinner with Guy Lombardo at the Roosevelt Hotel in New York City, where he and his band appear every night. Guy got his start in my old home town, Cleveland. When Guy predicts will go far, is "Everywhere You Go." The title is appropriate to bridge, because everywhere you go, you find bridge being played. Guy admits that a lot of it is played in his band. Don't know the vocalist, says that most of their arguments concern partner's overall of one no trump, so let's clear it up for the boys.

If your partner opens one of a suit, and you bid one of anything, you are simply giving your partner a chance to bid again. You are not promising him any particular strength. Therefore, you should make the easiest one-over-one response possible.

If you respond with one no trump over your partner's opening bid, you are not showing strength. You tell your partner that you cannot bid one of any suit over his, but that you do not have a passing hand.

In order to go into the two zone in another suit, for example, two clubs over one spade, you must have a trick and a half.

A jump response of two no trump is seldom the correct bid. However, in today's hand, North cannot bid two hearts because that also is a weakness bid. He has no other biddable suit, so he goes to two no trump to show his partner practically a game-going hand. When his partner bids three hearts, he goes to four hearts which is easily made.

They came over from Canada to Cleveland, they contacted a book-keeping agent named Mike Shea. "Sure and I have the right name for you," said Mike. "The Royal Canadians." The next day Mike booked the band in a dance hall in Akron, and the Royal Canadians were on their way to fame.

They are making a lot of recordings. One of the latest, which

Plans Developing Rapidly For Bang-up Celebration In Warren Over Fourth of July

Plans are developing rapidly for a bang-up four-day observance in Warren in July, reports made at a meeting of the celebration committee at the American Legion home last evening revealed.

The event, as has been stated previously, will open Friday evening, July first, with a band concert, open-air dancing in Hickory street between Pennsylvania and Third avenues, crowning of the celebration queen and Barber Shop chorus singing. A Boy Scout pageant is scheduled for Saturday, and a gigantic variety show featuring home talent performers at Memorial Field will be staged in the evening. Sunday, the third, will be featured with an air show, opening with a flight breakfast in the morning, and later in the day it is hoped to present one of the leading bands in the area in a concert.

A parade in the morning, drum corps competition in the afternoon, and fireworks display in the evening, with a surprise number topping off the affair are scheduled for Independence Day.

At the meeting held last evening the committees in charge of raising funds to finance the celebration reported that it had held several meetings and was prepared to start active work this week. Approval of the plan has been given by the special committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

The question of concessions was discussed at length, and it is expected the committee in charge will have a definite report to make at next week's meeting.

Wendell Lawson and Howard Trusler, co-chairmen for the Friday evening program, reported they had plans well under way to present both round and square dancing in Hickory street, with some of the best callers in the area assisting. Appropriate music has also been assured.

The parade and drum corps committee, with Jack Barr and Ben Kinneer as co-chairmen, reported that invitations will go out to V. F. W. and Legion posts this week. The prizes that are being offered, it is expected, will attract many entries for the contests on the afternoon of the Fourth. Since each drum corps must be in Warren for the parade in the morning, in order to qualify for competition, the community is assured a large and colorful procession.

It was decided to close a contract with the Atlantic Fireworks Co., of New Castle, for a gigantic display on the evening of the Fourth. This is the same company that had charge of the program during Pennsylvania week last fall, and it was decided that the same

Joint School At Youngsville Is Approved

Youngsville Board of Education, in its regular April meeting held last evening, reaffirmed its decision to proceed with the formation of a joint school board with Eldred township for the maintenance and operation of a junior-senior high school in the borough of Youngsville. Members of the two boards are to meet in the near future and complete their arrangements, and the acceptance of tuition students for the 1949-50 term was left as a matter for the joint board to decide.

Several applications for new teachers were considered and laid aside until the two boards have met and the definite number of students is known upon which to base plans for the coming school year.

It was pointed out that no building program would be needed for the accommodation of the two districts and there would be sufficient room for the operation of all phases of the grade and high schools.

Routine bills were ordered paid and other business considered included the purchase of a new loose-leaf minute book, the installation of an extension telephone, approval of the rental of the auditorium to Brokenstraw Grange on April 28 at a fee of $15; the purchase of the annual quota of new library books from the H. R. Hunting Company, of Springfield, Mass., in the sum of approximately $125; permission for two elementary teachers to attend a conference at Edinboro State Teachers College on April 25.

Permission was given for the athletic banquet to be held in the school on Thursday, April 21, at which about 100 are expected to be present. The ladies in charge of the cafeteria will prepare the dinner which will be served by seventh and eighth grade girls.

The library report showed the addition of three volumes during March and a circulation of 1029 volumes for that month. Figures from 1947 and 1948 show a steady growth in library facilities in the school.

Dental examinations for the 1st, 3rd, 5th, 7th and 9th grades have been completed and examinations for the other grades are proceeding with the 11th grade to be examined later this week.

The board adjourned until a special meeting next Monday for the final settlement of tax accounts.

Pleasant Twp. Fire Station Discussed

At the regular meeting of the Pleasant Township Volunteer Fire Department held last evening, preliminary plans for the new fire station were discussed and it is hoped that final plans can be decided upon at the next meeting. Type, size and costs of construct-new committees to help with enterprises designed to further the affairs of the department.

Following the business session, a lunch was served to members.

Chapter 19

"WOULD you mind telling me how you figured it all out?" Ellen spoke slowly and dispassionately.

"It didn't take much figuring. You told me yourself that you handle all the requisitions for the department. It would be easy for you to slip in an order for a small tank of phosgene."

"I see," she said quietly. "And the motive?"

"To be able to continue your affair with Russell. Hubbard stood in your way. I would guess that Hubbard was probably holding something over your head to make you conform."

"And Dr. Bray? Did I kill him too?"

"I'm afraid so," he said stubbornly.

"Why?" she demanded.

"Bray was killed because he had guessed who had murdered Hubbard."

"I see." Again she spoke quietly. "I guess it does make sense."

She sighed. Raff was puzzled. He had expected her to laugh it off at first, and then become furiously angry. He was unprepared for this quiet acceptance of what he had told her.

She began to pick up her purse and put her arms in her coat sleeves.

"Would you like me to take you home now?" he asked.

"No," she said. "I'm taking a cab home. I want you to go to the police station, right away."

"I can take you home first."

"You don't understand." Her face was very white and she spoke very earnestly. "I want this whole thing cleared up as soon as possible. And I don't want to have anything more to do with you than I can possibly help. You've made a mistake, of course. I haven't killed them. Nor do I know who did. But you'll find that out in due time."

"Wait a minute!" he interrupted.

"No, I don't want to hear any more." The words came out rapidly. "Maybe you're sorry already that you jumped to those conclusions. I really don't care. I suppose it was an easy mistake to make. I don't hate you for it. Only I know now that you're not a person I enjoy being with."

"Thank you for the dinner tonight, Dr. Rafferty." She got up and walked swiftly out of the room.

Raff pulled out some bills and laid them on the table hastily, and then turned to follow her. He retrieved his coat and got to the entrance just as she was getting into a cab.

"Ellen," he called desperately. He didn't even turn around at the sound. He felt a nudge at his elbow. Patrick stood beside him.

"Something wrong?" he asked.

"I want my car. In a hurry."

"But of course. Let me have your ticket." Patrick took the ticket and went in search of the attendant.

It was a full twenty minutes later that his car was brought around.

"Can't understand how the boy got the tickets mixed up," Patrick explained. "The car wasn't where the ticket said it was. Awfully sorry." He held the door open for Raff.

"Thanks, bud," Raff said angrily. "Incidentally how much did she pay you for the delay?"

Patrick stared stonily at Raff and then a grin spread over his wide face.

Raff slammed the door and drove away.

HE DROVE straight to Ellen's apartment and then circled the block slowly. The windows were all dark. It's too late, he thought; she's already in bed. He thought of knocking at her door and then rejected the idea.

He swung the car around viciously. He was mad at himself for being such a fool. He was mad at Russell for getting him in such an unreasonable state of mind and lastly, he was mad at Norton for ever getting him involved in the whole mess in the first place. The nicest, most genuine girl he had ever met, and just because some guy kissed her, he had to get jealous and accuse her of a double murder. He snorted. She was no more capable of murder than Norton himself. Mentally he kicked himself.

He drove back to the hospital, parked his car and went upstairs. In his room he poured himself a stiff drink. Then he went to bed.

Meanwhile Ellen had been sitting in a corner of the cab all hunched up. She felt cold. The thought of her bed, so warm and soft, kept running through her mind. She would go right to bed.

It wasn't true, as she had dispassionately told Dr. Rafferty, that she didn't hate him. She hated him so hard it made her whole body ache. Even that time before she hadn't quite felt that way. Even Les, her father, with all his dirty dealings, had never managed to fill her with such revulsion—a revulsion that amounted almost to paralysis. She crouched still farther in the corner of the cab. Again she thought how nice it would be to be in bed.

The cab stopped in front of the apartment. Mechanically she got out and paid the driver. She fumbled for her keys and let herself into the lobby. There was always a dim light in the lobby which never seemed to lend a melancholy atmosphere. It depressed her more than usual tonight. She hurried across the lobby to her own door and unlocked it.

As she opened the door a board squeaked as though someone had shifted weight. Maybe she didn't hear it. Maybe she was so cold and numb and tired she didn't care. She reached for the light switch.

It was queer. No blaze of light flared up inside her head. No firecrackers exploded. No huge black cloud enveloped her. Just—nothing. She slumped to the floor.

Someone very quietly replaced the poker near the fireplace and then very carefully stepped over her and went out into the lobby, closing the door to her room.
